

Deeanna L. Burleson, RN, MSN,
Associate Executive Director
One Health Commission

Deeanna Burleson, RN, MSN is owner and CEO of Full Spectrum Solutions (Spectrum). Spectrum is a women veteran owned business, which provides business process solutions to organizations, and professionals as well as wellbeing solutions for individuals. Spectrum's mission is to help organizations realize their full strength and potential through methods such as program evaluation, gap analysis, and process improvement. As a retired Lt Col of the US Air Force, and a Registered Nurse in the public and private sector, she brings over 30 years of healthcare experience to all projects. Professional experience includes clinical expertise in the areas of Emergency Care, Intensive Care, Home Care, Information Technology, Collective Conversations (focus groups) and Mind Body approaches. Her unique skills have made her a successful Project Manager and healthcare systems consultant to private companies, non-profits, the US Military and the Department of Veterans Affairs.

In 2005 Ms. Burleson was assigned as the first military liaison from US Northcom Command to the Department of Homeland Security to assist in the stand up of the National Bio-surveillance Integration System (NBIS), now known as the National Bio-surveillance Integration Center (NBIC). While in that position she developed a passion for the One Health Concept as a systems approach to improving the health of our planet and all of its global inhabitants.

Ms. Burleson understands that individuals and organizations are created and operate around complex human processes. Communication, as a human process is at the foundation of business culture, policies, procedures as well as related to sustainable outcomes. Currently, she is completing a PhD in organizational systems with a focus in integrative health systems and patient centered care.
